

Knight & Simmons Questions:

This paper makes use of an expressive language to express different qualities / emotional states of the robot. Discuss the trade-off between both the size of the expressive space and the number of expression the designer commits to, and the legibility of the designed expressions from a theoretical perspective. Practically, why do you think the legibility was low on the designed behaviors?